This is valparaiso. But where does one go from there? The fact that it "is", that it exists is as close as a lot of people come to defining, describing, or otherwise eulogizing "dear ol' Valpo." A few words, somewhat more precise seem necessary to preserve for posterity (or our middle-age reminiscing) the state of the University, 1967.

Someplace between Berkeley-ville and Bible College-land lies the V.U. campus of '67. The protests are hardly up to Berkeley standards—filthy word strikes appear to be confined to registration day, anti-Greek rivalries, and the day grades are posted. Activism here in '67 appears to be somewhat pseudo and put-on, more a trial reaction against the middle class world from whence we came and whither we proceed, than any real break from society. Yet, please remember, that we did think and we did act and more than anything else, we did talk. Unlike the schools we choose to think of as over-protected, Valpo students are not closeted away for four years to learn in peace. Someone here seems to have discovered that learning is best done in turmoil, or at least in slight commotion. We are exposed, although cautiously, lest one's toes get burned, to the world of the big people. It's not a plunge mind you, or a swan dive or even a belly flop, but rather a run along the beach—a nice, clean Pollyanna sort of beach—with a dart every now and then into the shallow bubbles of the big, black sea.

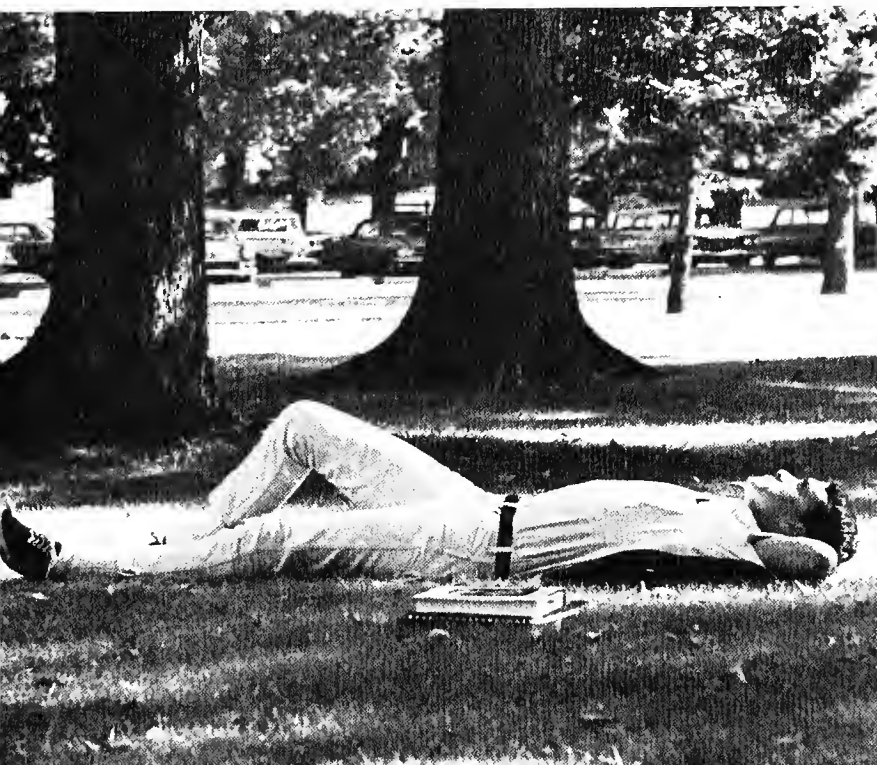

To continue the geography lesson, in Berkeley-land (and all the multiversity places like it) there are no trees. No trees . . . no shade so, all the Berkely-land people get sunburned, and sun-stroked and generally over-exposed. At times they are also ridiculous. Bible College-ville lies in a big German forest (which, of course, cannot be seen for all the trees). It's pleasant there but a bit too much shade. We all know that this can lead to vitamin deficiencies and other problems due to the lack of sunshine. When the B.C.-ville kids do get into the sunlight (after graduation) they're not prepared for all that vitamin D. As a result they sometimes become even more over-exposed and more ridiculous than the Berkeley-land people.

Now for the moral of the story: we stand in the sunshine—God's good light—luce tua—and we're allowed to be free and independent and grow up to be strong healthy girls and boys as our moms wanted us to. And yet there are always the protective shade trees—like that big oak on the south lawn of the Chapel—where we can return now and then when the sun gets too searing. We're gung-ho enough to think that this is the best kind of place to grow up and to get an education—in the broadest sense of the word. We like to call it freedom in the shade.

people*

in the increasingly mechanical, IBMized world
there is something which draws us to a certain kind of people—eccentric, pensive,
creative, charming,
tender, brilliant, clown . . .
we delight in the unusual man, he who has not been mass produced to talk, look, act and even bathe like the 100% red, white, and blue typical american of the t.v. commercial.
we value those who simply cannot be replaced by wires, tubes and transistors.
above all, we are impressed, influenced
or angered
by those who dare,
for better or for worse,
not merely to exist—
but to live.

*you can't

pay your buck, get a beanie and you're on your way to being a freshman. admittedly, freshmen week is a lot of mickey mouse—buttoning, the annual trek through the wilderness of the dunes, and stunt night are faintly reminiscent of high school—but so are freshmen. besides the mickey mouse takes up the slack between placement tests and lectures on proper study habits and staves off the homesickness for a little while. to be sure, freshmen week is more fun for girls—all prey for the horde of upperclassmen complete with fraternity pins, a fast line, and cars. for guys this is the first bitter lesson of what it means to be a freshman. the funny thing is—freshmen week is our first taste of everything that we like and hate about valpo—and, as much as we'd like to, we never quite forget it.

never does the desire (on the part of upperclass males) to return to the halls of higher learning run as high as it does during freshmen week.

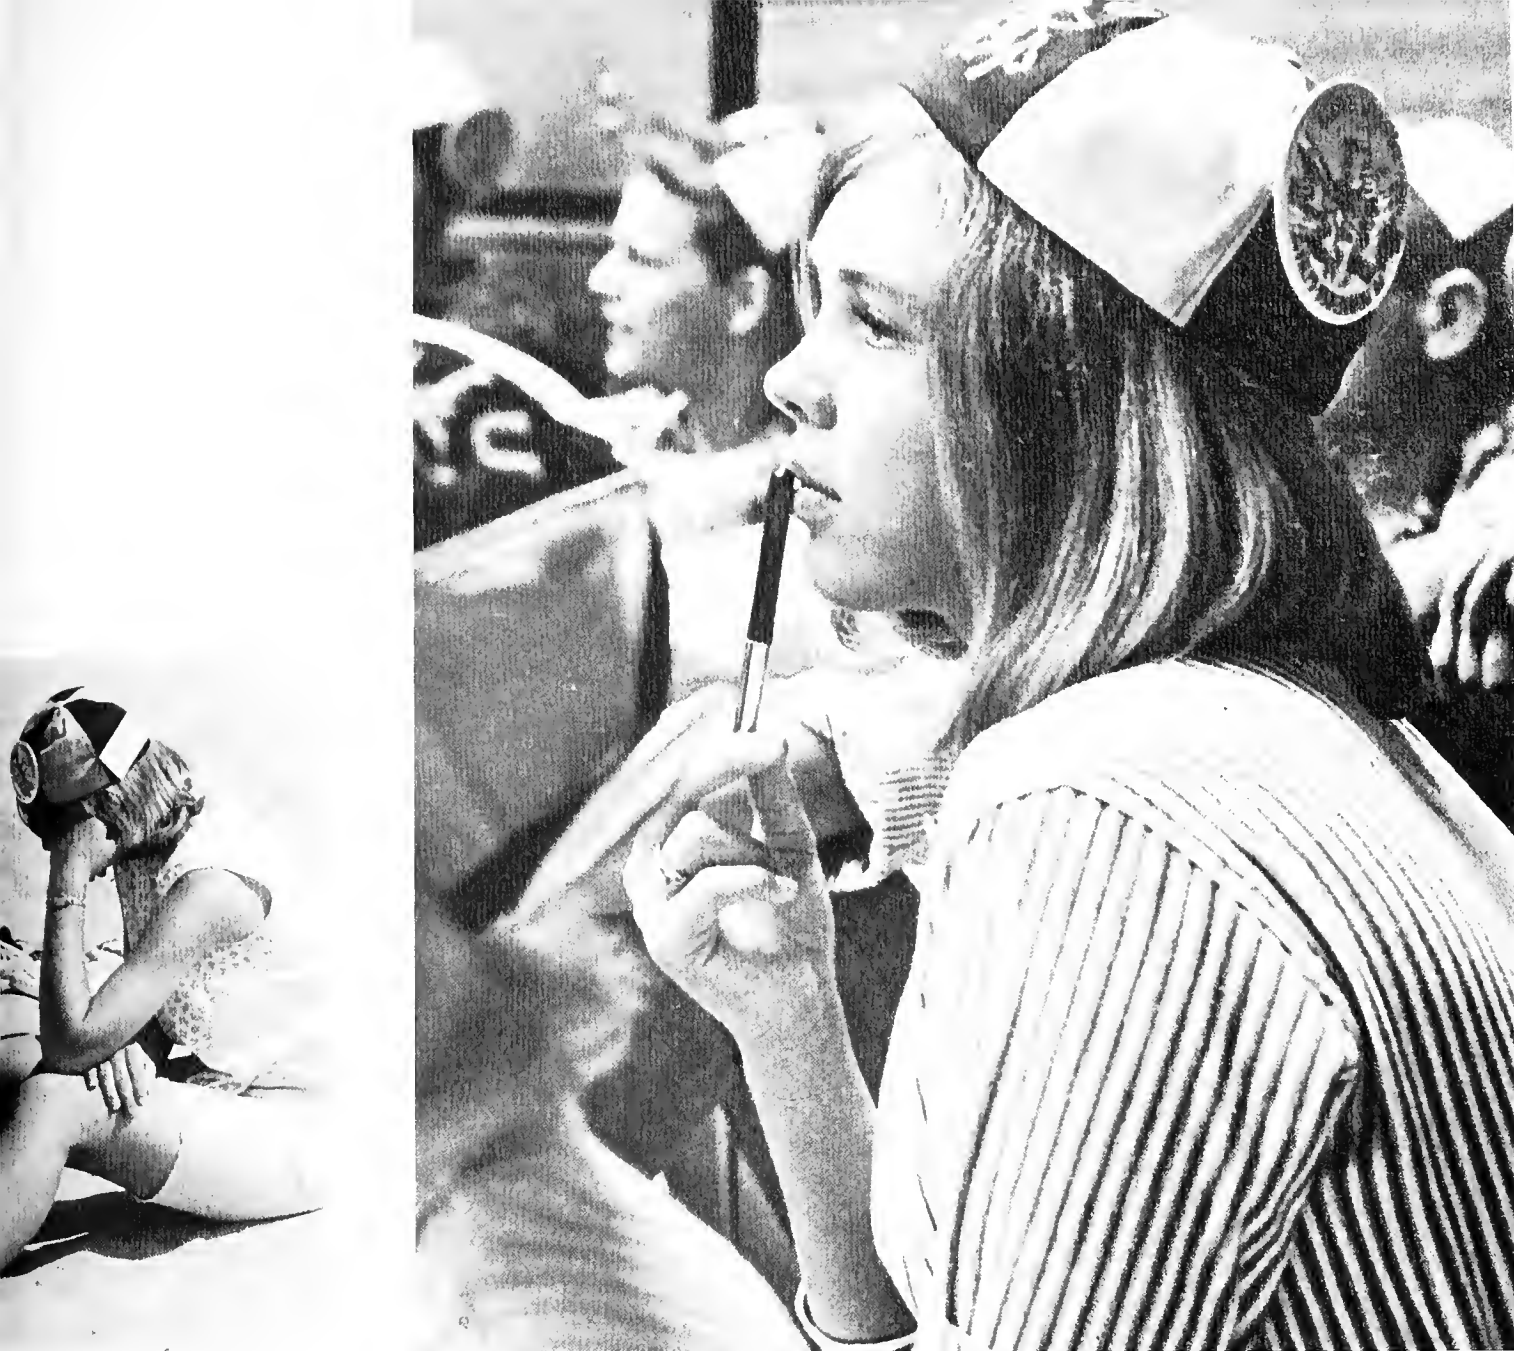

sometimes it's like being four years old again and you can't find your mother in the supermarket.

unfinished alumni engendered all kinds of confidence in the hordes of parents sending their daughters off into the cold cruel world for the first time.

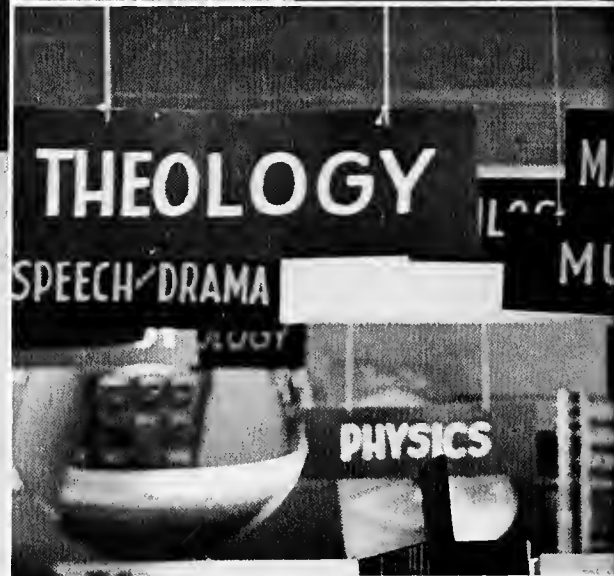

take your pick about her boyfriend, home, her dog, maybe.

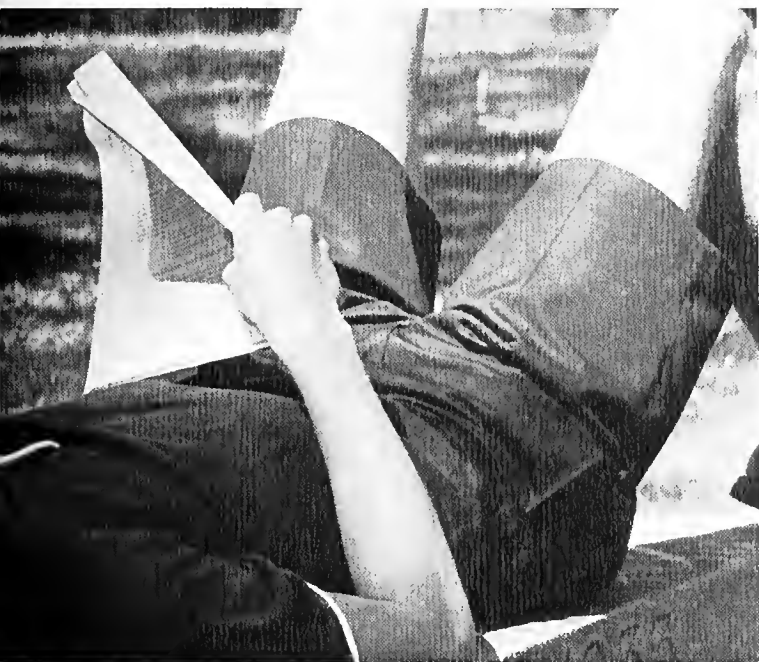

we'd yell monopoly, but you can't buck tradition . . . especially one that makes money.

academics
the thing we all come to college for the thing we go out on weekends to get away from the thing that makes us cram and regurgitate
on aptly tinted blue books; the thing that encourages smiles at professors, especially the single ones, and dropping by the office for a little chat.
before technology took off for the moon academics was rational unparanoic
platitudinous, noncomplex, non mass produced, absolute, secure. And it was in plain English too, for all the syntax.

the division of labor, reminiscent of Babel, has somehow gotten into academics.
specialized verbalizing makes cross-communication nearly impossible.
everybody explain their terms: first rule of the game.
but it seems the only common key to communication is to go the way of Webster's Third International: slang, colloquial, street language.
unfortunately, for all of Webster's efforts, slang somehow lacks the prestige, the deus ex machina function of each discipline's private dictionary; it can't devise explanations by devising new words; it's not obtuse enough for the obscure purposes of academics. And since the use of street language might make it impossible to tell peons from genii . . .
no one could tell just who deserved to go to the big war.

to conclude
academics is what keeps you alive and out of uniform
and still able to make out with your girlfriend every night in the library.

the agony and the ecstasy someplace in the big wide alienated world you stumble suddenly upon a soul mate—someone you can talk to or laugh with or just drink with, but someone who knows you at least in some small way.

okay, we admit we're afraid to open up;
the world has an amazing way of kicking innocent, well-meaning kids in the teeth.
we seldom forget such a lesson.
but now and then we find an honest and open,
no-holds barred kind of trust and sharing:
a prof who cares about you for more than a gpa,
a friend who likes you more than your chem notes, a date who is chuckles on saturday night and stands solidly next to you in chapel on sunday morning.

in spite of the folklore girls don't come to college to find mates—
there are hundreds of ways to meet guys that are easier and more alluring
than over a microscope
in a 7:30 biology lab.
still there appears to be an insecurity about college life which causes us to reach out—and to our wonderment and surprise, find something or someone to hold on to.
the wonder of antiseptically clean, fearfully unerring modern science has yet to explain, understand, or dissect the mystery of human relationships.

coney island
of
the mind*

let's face it—as a whole, we're not too culturally minded here at valpo. basketball games, rush parties or a doris day movie at the premier take precedence over shakespeare or shaw. occasionally we take time to look at the art exhibits in the library or see a foreign film if the advertising is alluring enough. there are recitals by music students, one-act plays, lyceum concerts or fine art exhibits, all of which are attended—by students who take the time to see what valpo has to offer culturally. doris is bound to stop smiling someday, and there are a few who will be prepared for that great calamity.

Some of this year's cultural events included the Ramsey Lewis jazz trio, many fine showings in the Sloan galleries in the library (the photography was particularly excellent), and project foreign films. Under the sponsorship of the Department of Speech and Drama, eight V.U. juniors are spending the year in Coventry, England. (below)

STORY those four cement block walls are a poor substitute for home—but then home is a pretty poor substitute for this zoo-style living called dorm life, brotherhood or apartment dwelling. it's not hard to trade meat loaf twenty ways, dirty sheets or your best sweater being stolen for steak, fresh towels, a car, home—the great protective umbrella. then why do we put up with it? because it's also independence (no that don't, and what the catalogue likes to call "an learning to get along with an impossible roommate usually is somewhat more valuable than an A in this business of dorm, fraternity, and apartment living provokes many trivial but oft repeated questions "why is scheele's elevator always on fifth floor or in the basement (except when one is in either of those places)?" "how do you get scotch tape off your windows?" "what is the ratio of beer bottles to discarded milk cartons in the tke garbage pit?" "are you sure playing for pennies is allowed in the dorm?"

in case you haven't guessed, frank l. wright did not design demotte hall (affectionately known to members of the "in" group as dammit hall) or baldwin or even kinsey. for that matter, greenwich group (alais garbage group) is an exercise in op art. trains shake bogarte, drafts keep the physics students awake in heimlich—in short, our physical surroundings make going to class not only a challenge but an adventure as well.

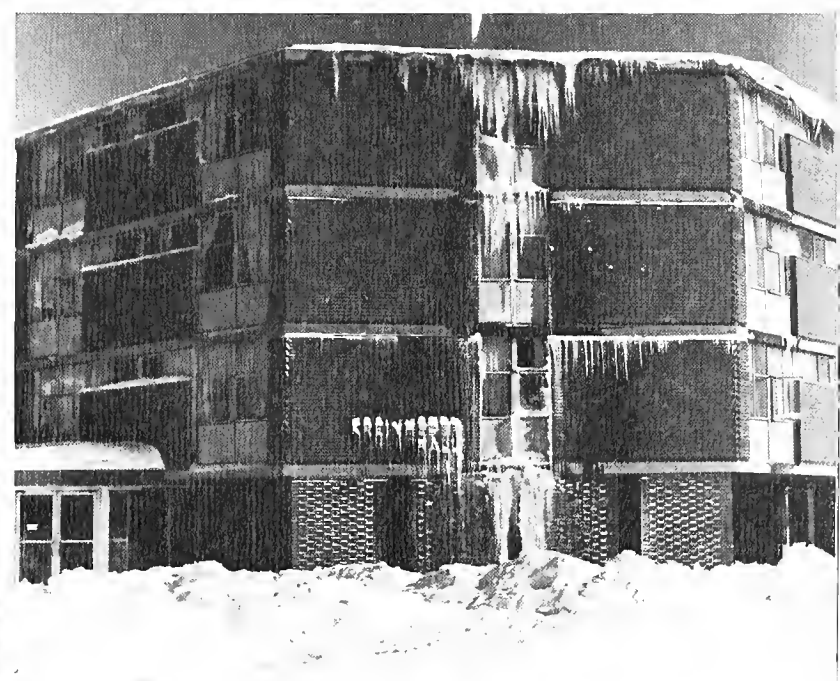

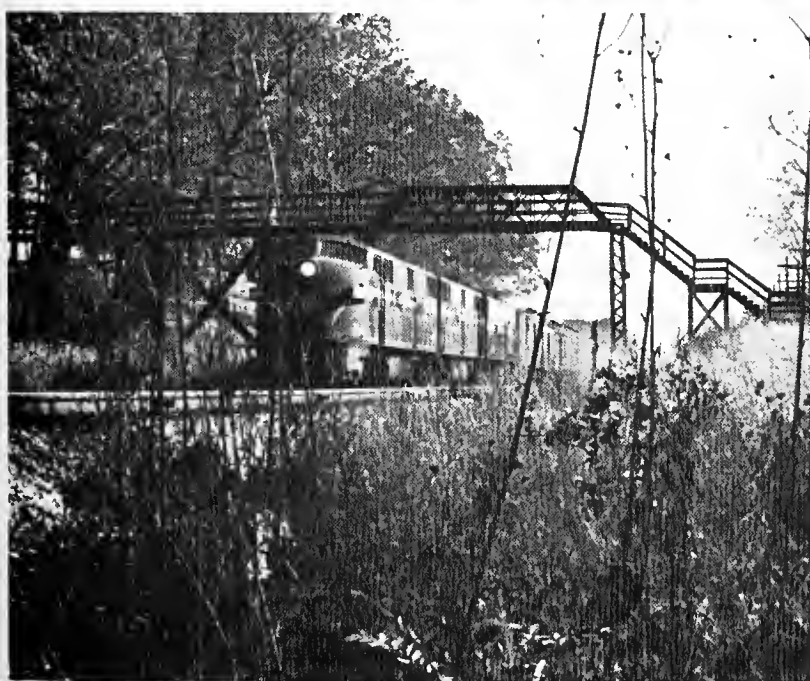

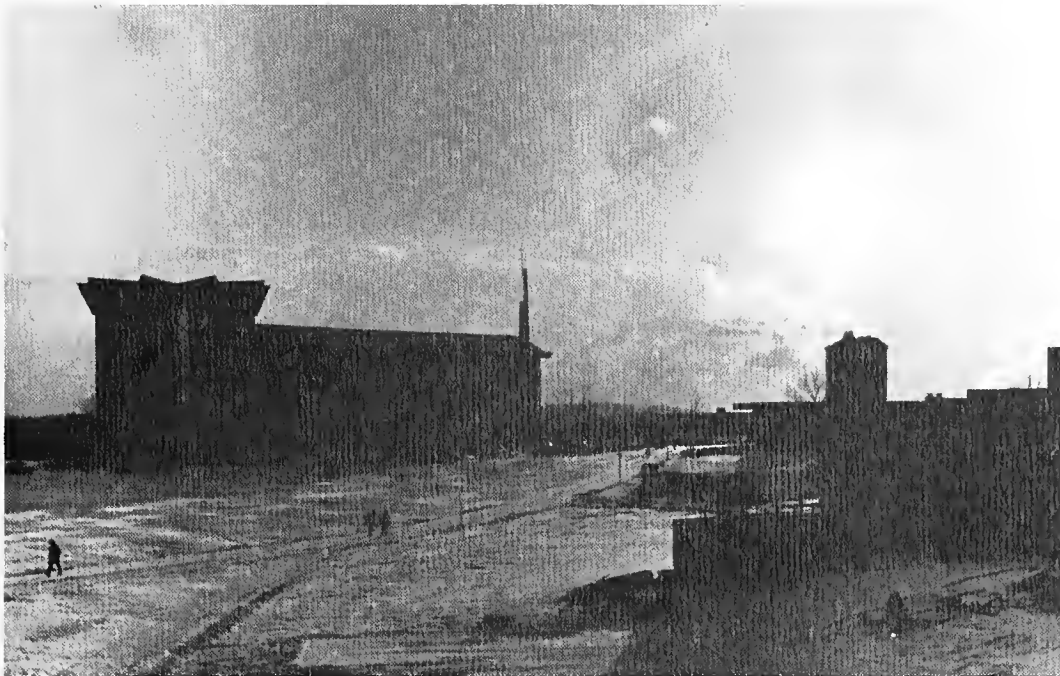

be pragmatic, we're told . . . it's the teacher that counts, not the building. past experience has shown this to be true. so we quietly mumble, complain and hope the windows to have our spirits lifted somewhat. and no one can wait until they dig the moat around the new science building.

the secular city

our town . . . no, the stigma of being a "townie" is too great for such an admission. instead we claim an uneasy alliance: we tolerate and our money is tolerated. the premier, the o.b., miller's, and northside charlie's all offer a schizophrenic release—a necessary one. an occasional trip outside our tight, snobbish world is therapeutic; and besides you can't get to the dunes without going through it.

pity the lowly freshman. his weekends are as empty as a sunday morning mailbox. valpo social life is largely self-made. ask me why greeks are important on the swingin' v.u. campus of '67— I'll show you one of those sallow-orange social calendars.

the great blizzard was obviously THE social event of the season but even the snow melted away. greeks ponder what keeps the GDI busy from january to easter (pledging does help to pass the time). in some mysterious way valpo has obtained a reputation for being a party school . . . perhaps it's because valpo's siberian winters have been known to drive some to drink. . . . the newest party game is figuring out what we'd be doing if this was a party school.

LIFE

THE NEW YORKER

As the "hub of the Campus", the union provides fun and games but often runs out of essentials like coke. Greeks go all out on theme parties to snow rushees (Feature the Pikes as longshoremen!). Herb's club is the closest thing to a campus hangout—mostly we make our own fun ... homemade fun is better than sobriety.

the winter of our discontent baby, the rain must fall, also under consideration as the headline for this page, lost out when the great snow came, because we figured that anything spectacular enough to postpone finals certainly deserved priority. there is no legal limit to the snow here, but at least when we get to be middle-aged and nostalgic for dear old valpo, we can tell our children of the blizzard of '67 and how the snow was so deep that the road by scheele hall was used as an ambulance route for emergency patients landed by helicopter behind the chapel (but we may not tell them about miller's running out of beer before even the milk was gone).

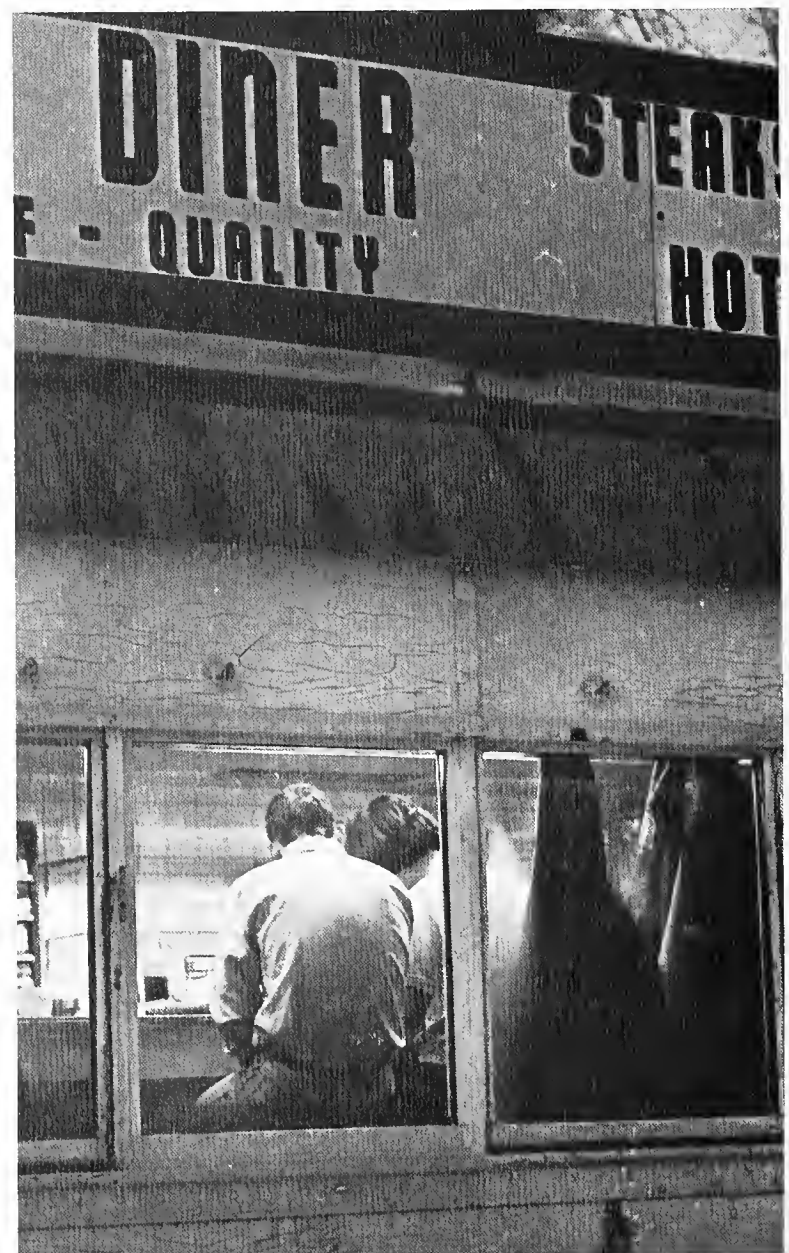

the moveable feast

after the dorm standard, beef-tips over noodles, for the third consecutive wednesday, a student begins to wonder just how much stock the cafeteria owns in lovey's.

if you've just failed a physics test and/or have just been stood up by your blind date, food soothes the hurt.

students eat when they're happy, depressed, nervous, procrastinating, or merely hungry—which in nine months adds up to enough hamburgers to convert the chapel into a hamburger bin and fill it to the top.

Dinner at Wellman's is usually reserved for Parents' Weekend, a snowy date, or for getting pinned. The B.C. Steakhouse (better known as Burger Chef) has become the Sunday night haunt of those affluent individuals who own cars and are thus able to escape the inflationary prices at Lovey's. But Monday, it's back to meat loaf, jello or whatever else the cook can scrounge or even worse, for those who do their own cooking a trip to Fetla's (for the hardy of mind, body and stomach) or some other supermarket to buy the week's supply of hot dogs, soup, tv dinners and tooth paste.

crusaders plod through dismal 3—6 season

The 1966 football season was a long and disappointing one. Bad breaks came in the usual forms of fumbles, interceptions, and penalties, but numerous injuries and coaching miscues crippled what might have been a successful season. About the best thing the Crusaders did manage to do was to schedule only four home games, since they dropped all four of them and stretched their two-year home record to only one victory in nine games. Getting away from the "Brown Field Jinx" the Crusaders managed to do a little better, winning three out of five road games. Unfortunately only one of those victories was against a conference opponent, and the Crusaders finished last in the ICC with a 1—5 record.

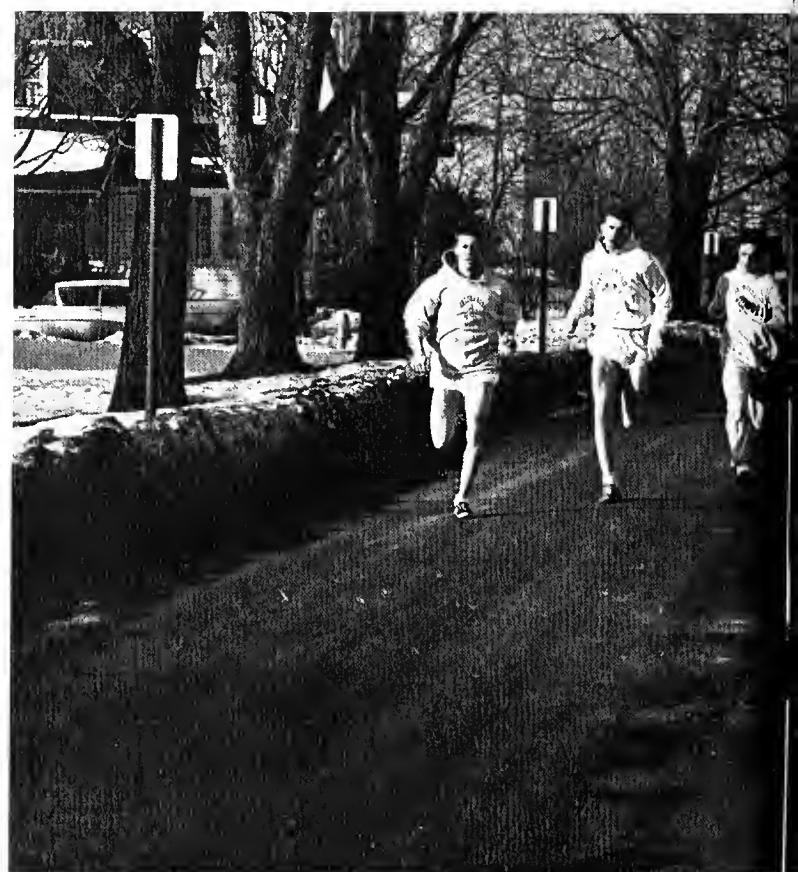

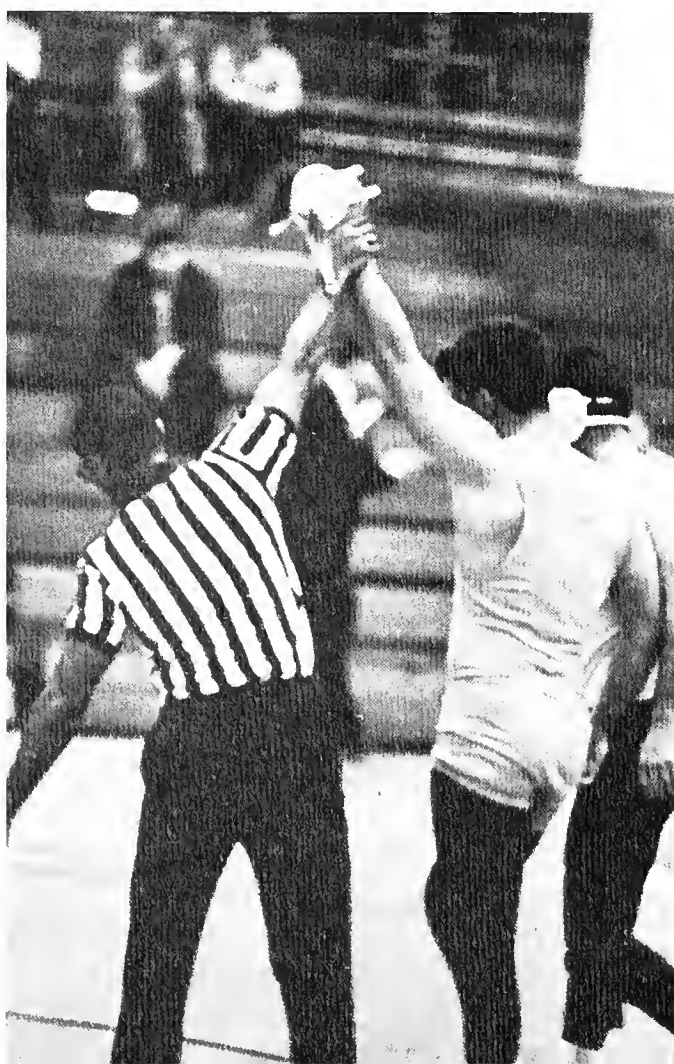

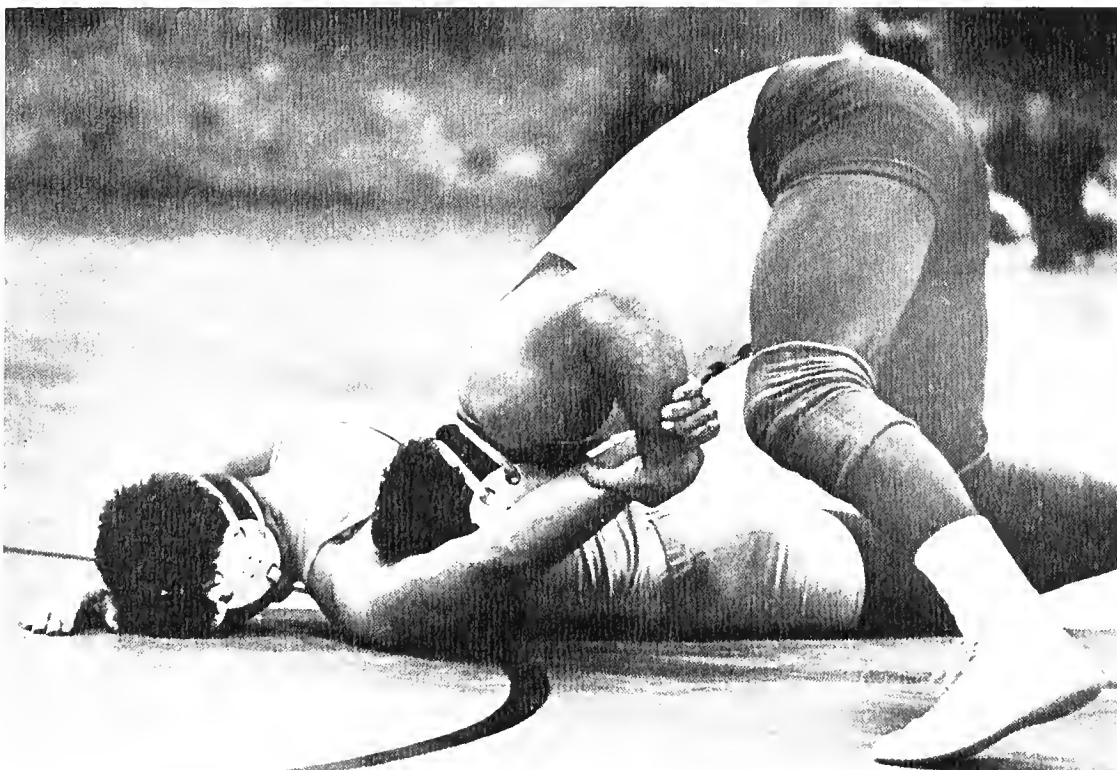

Although the overall picture was rather grim, the Crusaders managed to turn in many fine individual performances. Among these were Bill King's 33 tackles against Ball State, Tom Dohrman's 92 yd. touchdown run against Wabash, and Burt Bleke's 70 yd. jaunt with a Jon Dimitri pass in the Indiana State game. Dohrman and Bleke were named to the All-Conference Team, while King was selected as the Most Valuable Player by his teammates.

The trip to Terre Haute marked the second year in a row in which Coach Gene Bartow had taken the Brown and Gold into the NCAA Small College tournament. The Crusaders earned that trip on the basis of their fine 19—7 won-lost record and a second place finish in the ICC. They then proceeded to beat Colorado Southern and Indiana State before advancing to the sectionals. The season was highlighted by victories over Air Force Academy, Evansville, Indiana State (two), and a championship in the Crusader Classic for the second year in a row. Guard Dick Jones, who led the conference in scoring with a 25.2 average, and forward Vern Curtis were selected to the all-ICC team while center Ken Rakow gained Honorable Mention.

ever since the days of german beer gardens and the student prince, college has been associated with music. valparaiso has infinite variety in music (and near music). the department of music emphasizes the best of liturgical music, while northside charlies's deals mainly with fraternity and sorority ditties. spring weekend song fest (otherwise known as the pike glory contest), student and faculty recitals, the christmas concert, the stirring harmony of chapel choir are all part of the sound of valpo.

The marching band, university orchestra, chapel choir, and pep band add much to university events.

a college weekend is about the closest we ever come to the technicolor romance starring you and your own prince charming. in spite of the fast fading image of the college "kids" forever singing, building floats, and dancing long into the misty night, we have a lot more on our minds—especially those of us who must make grades or go to the Big War. perhaps it is just those weighty matters which make us so awfully devoted to our occasional weekends and all the accompanying trappings.

Could Spring Weekend be far away?

under the yum-yum tree:

a beacon exposé

(Long accused by the Valpo literary lions as being out of the mainstream of campus life—the Beacon hereby makes its debut into the world of the critical, satirical well, whatever it is.)

the land of the yum-yum tree is 32 degrees north latitude and 42 degrees latitude south of the billiard ball kingdom and many hours journey from the garden of academe. in short, it's a camelot in teak and cut glass bowls. as one wanders among the innocent hummels, the hallmarks, candles and stuffed beasties, the traveller is awed by this veritable fairyland—the valpo bookstore. books? ay, there's the rub. like anything worth looking for they seem to be hidden.

A student and his money (or his father's) are soon parted.

What every college kid needs: china love birds at ONLY $7.95 a pair.

This is known as a monopoly.

The Guild Corner is filled with lovely aprons and appropriate grandchildren gifts.

fear not. bounded on the south by the monarch notes, paper clips, and sweatshirts, on the west by the Bibles (new english and king james), and on the east by the u.s. post office, we find them nestled in the corner. the cost of living in the land of the yum-yum tree is very high. discount buying has yet to find its way into the economy. this is not hard to understand when magically a book you sold to the local merchants for $1.20 skyrockets in value overnight so the next day your roommate buys your used basic principles of speech for $4.00.

we could go on and on. however, the atmosphere is such that mere visitors often find themselves overcome. so as we fight our way through the jungle of 1970 football jerseys and brown and gold valpo garters, and leave this joyous land, we see it is covered with a fine mist—or in the vernacular—snow. well, Rome fell and occasionally a cut glass bowl does too.

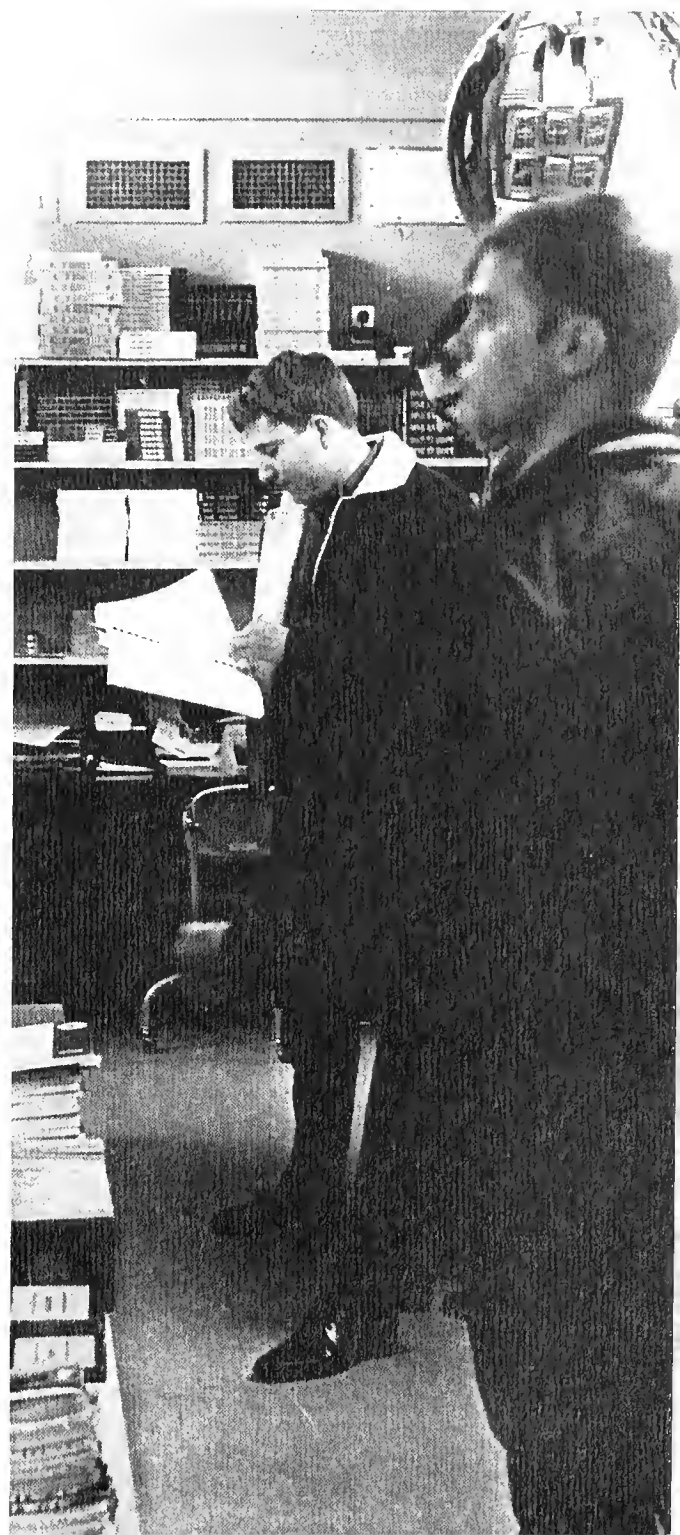

Lavalieres and other priceless jewels are big money makers.

Christmas comes but once a year, and the bookstore lies in wait.

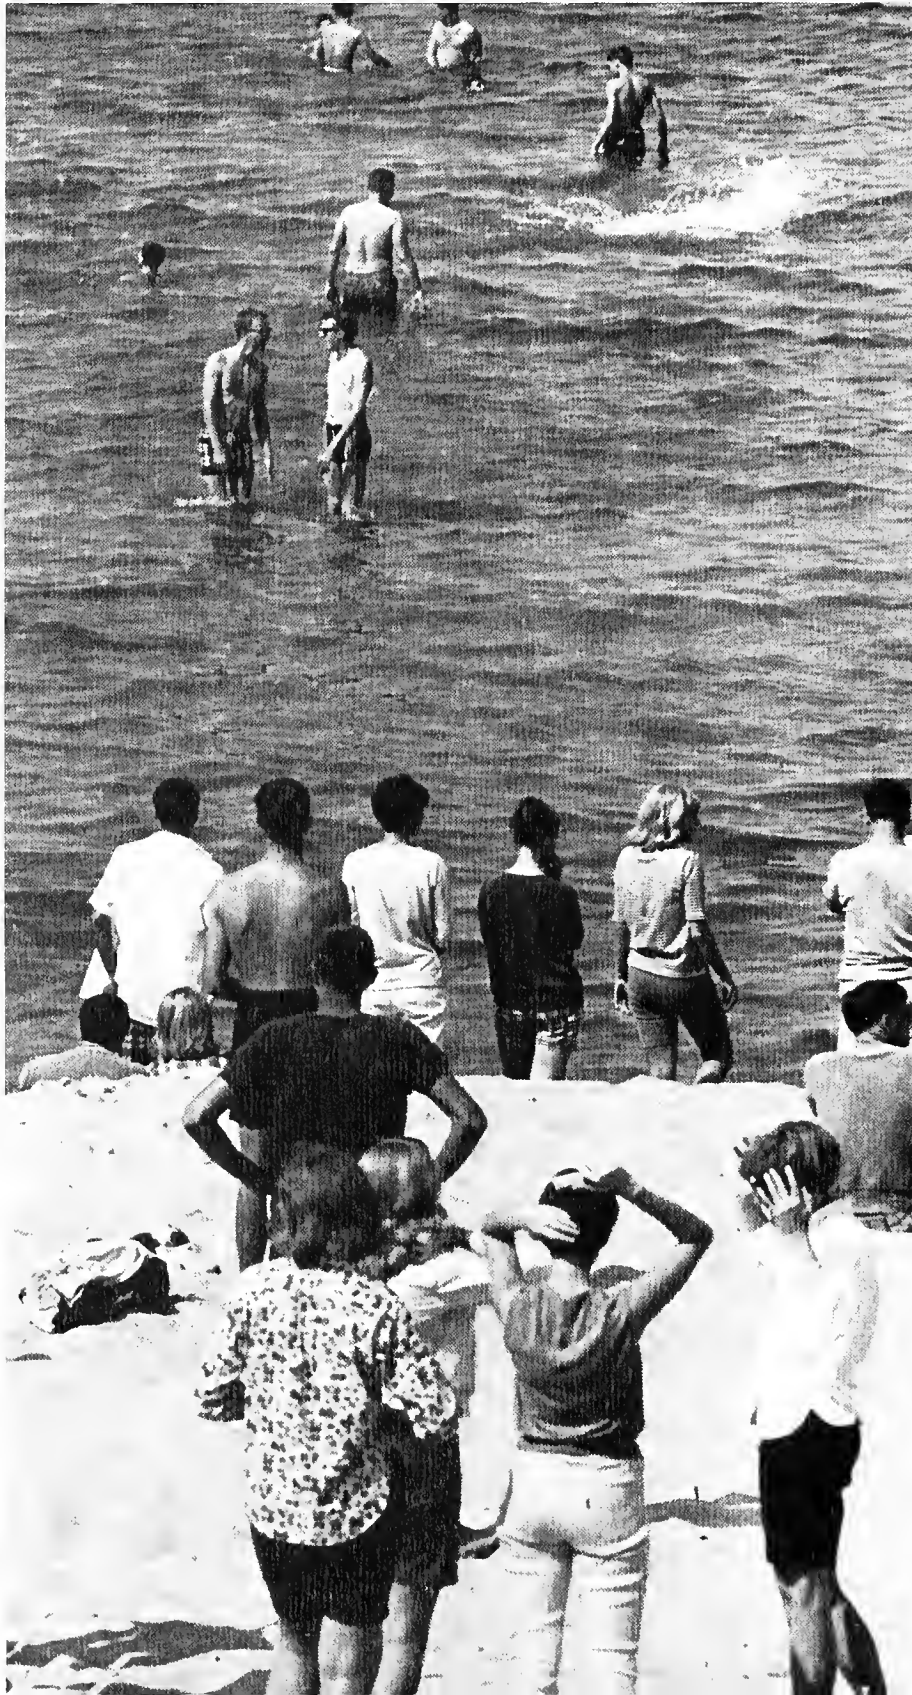

Yes, Virginia there are books in the bookstore.

the great escape

sometimes college life makes you feel like you're in a house of mirrors and there aren't any exit signs. there are days when we all feel like saying "chuck it" and becoming a shoe salesman, just to be able to forget about that D in biology, the term paper due next week or getting into grad school. however, most of us enjoy our status as students too much to ever indenture ourselves to the empire of thom mc-cann.

instead we are forced to find less permanent forms of escape. we sleep or play cards or drink or pray. we blend in with the well-oiled bodies lying on the dunes or buy warm pretzels from a clerk in old town—to escape anything that smacks of responsibility. yet we're supposed to conform, prepare ourselves for more responsibility, and we do . . . out of ignorance, fear, duty. to quote e. e. cummings: “. . . there's a hell of a good universe next door; let's go.” we occasionally do venture over, but who knows—they might make us cut the grass on the other side if we stay very long.

the chapel stands in the center of the new campus, services are held in the middle of each day—indications of the centrality of our personal faith in day to day campus life. aside from the high church parade and high mass on Sunday morning—the religious aspect of valpo is a bit subtle—the highly respected honor code, prayers before fraternity meetings, theology profs leading informal after-hours discussions, the celebration of valpo christmas, and a kind of trust in the basic goodness of our neighbor—like buying a union cup of coffee on the honor system.

one can't remain an urbane, intellectual college type forever so, at age forty when the reader's digest gets boring or the bowling tournament on tv is cancelled by a news special, we'll forget about the discussions on premarital sex, dunes parties and pretentious letters to the editor. instead we reflect on safer things: old george, founder's rock, song fest or o.p. such items are neatly tagged as "tradition" and should, in part at least, be absorbed by us all—just in case the job as editor of atlantic monthly never materializes and the reader's digest goes out of print. in spite of the complaints and wise cracks, these have been four very good years.

the efficiency expert,
 trying to save us money,

 things are different here.
 we couldn't replace our faculty our instructors direct us toward understandings, they want us to learn.

Most of us first met O.P. as freshmen at his annual orientation week address—and we felt a little more at home. Funny thing, that patriarch aura doesn't wear off, after orientation, sophomore year and even as a senior. Being a symbol, as admittedly he is, doesn't always wear well. "O.P." is a magic word, in the same category as Christmas vacation and homecoming. Still, one expects perfection from such things—reflecting exactly our conception. That's an awfully big request for 4000 people to make of one man. But then, Dr. Kretzmann is an awfully big man.

This year an invitational Advisory Council, composed of 12 students and three faculty members, has met biweekly with Dean Mundinger and Assistant Dean Foster. These meetings have been in the nature of feedback sessions to suggest possible improvements in the curriculum. They have also aided Assistant Dean Foster in his increasing role as an advisor to students. During the summer of 1967 a four-man team representing the college will attend the Danforth Conference on the Liberal Arts. They plan to examine the content and goals of the various programs within the college. Department Chairmen voted unanimously to recommend that each graduating Senior take the advanced test for his major field in the Graduate Records Program, which will give the college an indication of the effectiveness of their various programs. Thoughts of expansion in the Arts and Sciences Honors Program have continued with a closer look at the need for such a program in the curriculum. Also, separate departments have been established for the fields of Sociology and Social Work.

Focusing the curriculum toward business decision-making, the College of Business has expanded its program quickly in this direction. A work-study agreement was signed with the Internal Revenue Service. Under this arrangement two junior students will work as accounting trainees for the summer and on a half-time basis during their senior year. Also, two new courses, Marketing Research and Business Policies, have been added to the Department of Management and were offered for the first time during the spring semester. In order to provide a laboratory experience for statistics and to provide the student with access to calculating machines, a machine laboratory was set up during the fall semester. It is available for student use throughout the day and has introduced the students to more demanding quantitative material.

During this academic year, Professor Kurt List is engaged in a research project with the Du-Wel Company of Bangor, Michigan. Professor A. S. El-Naggar is continuing on a NSF grant for air pollution studies for Porter County, Indiana, and has received an NSF grant for the continuing study of trickling filters. The Mechanical Engineering Department also acquired a supersonic wind tunnel which was subsidized by the Government. In the Electrical Engineering Department, the servomechanisms laboratory was recipient of an NSF new equipment grant. All three departments of the School of Engineering this year received maximum accreditation of six years from the Engineer's Council for Professional Development.

Founded in 1879, the School of Law has continued to present new opportunities to gain experience in the various aspects of law. Initial printing of the student—edited publication, The Law Review, began this fall, to be continued biannually. Articles are contributed by leading men throughout the United States while student notes present fresh ideas in the field of law. Students can now participate in a legal aid program in cooperation with the Gary Bar Association. This effort provides the law students with an opportunity to assist in the office of an attorney and to experience actual court cases. A similar program has been initiated with the Federal District Criminal Courts in Hammond.

christ college

Christ College, having completed its first year on campus, has been in the planning stages for several years. The college, an outgrowth of the Directed Studies Program, is placing new stress on a low student-faculty ratio with emphasis on both a general and specific education. Professors from the other colleges on campus will be invited to participate in Christ College, which is planned as a center of experimentation for the entire university. At the present time the Christ College students may acquire either an intra-departmental major or concentration in one field. It is the hope of the college to offer Liberal Arts and to involve as many University students as are interested.

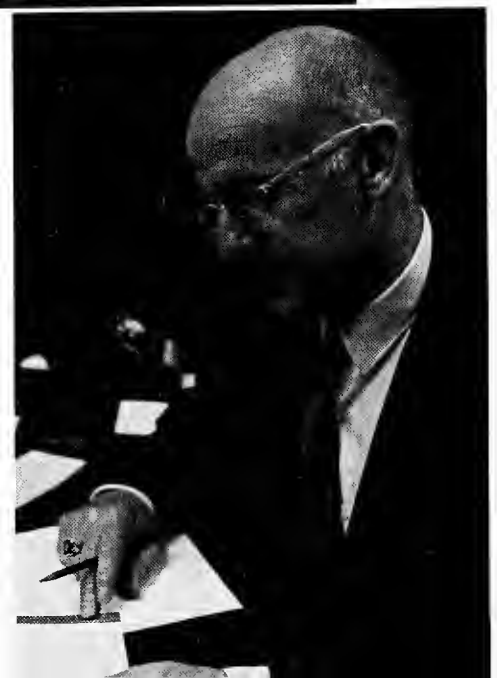

Associate Professor Richard Baepler, Ph.D. Dean of Christ College.

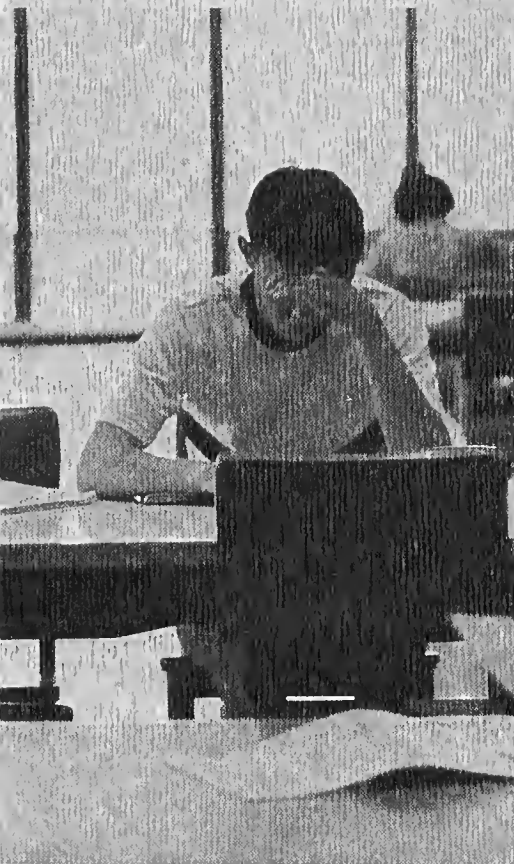

evening division and summer session

In addition to the fall and spring semester program at Valparaiso, students may also enroll in summer school sessions. Many of those enrolled in the summer session are school teachers seeking advanced degrees. Adults and part-time students also take advantage of evening division classes as well as regular Valpoites wishing to better space their class load. The evening and summer division service provides a real service for townspeople and students from the surrounding area.

Associate Professor Alfred Koester, M.A. Director of Evening Division and Summer Session this was the year of the greek inquisition.

 attacked from every side,
 the valparaiso greeks were frankly evaluating their system:
 its deficiencies and its merits.
 they refused to accept the much heralded theme that greeks did not belong on the changing campus of 1967.
 admittedly, fitting the "aware intellectual" image with the jock,
 the big drinking man about campus type,
 posed a problem for some,
 but the greeks have given up the idea that they are the counterparts of the raccoon-coated, rah-rah joes of the '20's.
 they submit, however, that greek letters are still the greatest stimulus on campus.

interfraternity council

The Interfraternity council has as its aim to govern and direct the areas of mutual concern among fraternities and support worthwhile activities on a campus-wide basis such as the "Week of Challenge." The maintenance of high academic standards, improvement of rush procedures and pledging, and revitalizing the Greek image on campus have been issues debated by the council. In conjunction with the Intersorority Council, the group sponsored and planned "Greek Week" which was intended as a period of re-evaluation and constructive improvement. Although slow to action, the IFC remains the best and most constructive force for guiding the fraternity system on campus.

intersorority council

The Intersorority Council strives to achieve coordination of the activities of the eight social sororities on campus and also helps to establish communication with the whole student body. ISC combined efforts with IFC this year to sponsor their first annual Greek Week. Intersorority Council also strives to emphasize scholastic achievement. Annually a plaque is awarded to the sorority with the highest cumulative grade point. The Council is working to strengthen and improve the sorority system within the goals and ideals of the university.

alpha phi delta

This year I lived with the Alpha Phi's. I was there when ... they struggled with their Homecoming float ... entertained their fathers at the annual banquet during Parents' Weekend ... danced dreamily at their formals ... rejoiced over their pledge class ... sold Alpha dogs every Thursday night ... honored their mothers during Mothers' Weekend ... laughed at their Dunes Breakfast ... and bid their seniors a sad farewell at the Senior Banquet. I know how much interest and energy they put into their studies. I could feel their deep pride in and their love for each other and for Alpha Phi.

alpha xi epsilon

Alpha Xi Epsilon is a composite of varied individuals; our majors range from P.E. to Political Science, our interests from liturgical plays to book-breaks at the Union. Yet this diversity is blended together by that special ingredient defined in our motto: "Friendship born of Loyalty." Through this friendship-plus called sisterhood, we learn to share ourselves with one another: the applause of a personal triumph, the problems sometimes encountered, private jokes, and equally private tears. Each member contributes her individual personality, talents, time, and love to form the sorority we are proud to call our own: Alpha Xi Epsilon.

Friendship coupled with a sincere interest and understanding of one another is the foundation of Chi sisterhood. This is what has given meaning to us as a group and therein lies our strength. Our close friendships have become so much a part of each of us that even when we are involved in the most tedious to tasks we can follow through. In remembering our strengths and weaknesses we can help each other use individual talents for the betterment of the sorority as a whole. This combination of unity and individuality benefits each of us personally. We know that to give and take is to receive the gift of sisterhood.

"Gamma, the name that means so much to me ..." So begins one of the Gammas' favorite songs. The name belongs to all 60-plus of us, yet its meaning for the individual Gamma is something very personal. For some of us it's the security found in open acceptance. For others it's a chance to use that special talent, whether it be singing, sewing, drawing, or just listening. It's pride, and in some cases discontent. It's noise and quiet moments shared. It's individuality, not stifled. But above all it's a Christian concern, not ingrown, but encompassing those around us. Gamma Phi is a group of individuals growing together.

Kappas actively center around the phone.

Kappas celebrate the success of a sister.

kappa psi omega

Who is a Kappa? She's a girl who willingly offers her time, service, and understanding and would gladly give more if it were possible. A Kappa studies late, yet morning finds her greeting all with a pleasant interest which inspires admiration. She slaves for Homecoming and Songfest, and, no matter what the out-come, her heart recognizes a job well done. A Kappa is a loving sister, not just a sorority girl. Her friends are her family, and the life she shares with them molds her into a woman prepared to meet future joys and sorrows time and time again.

KTZs understand individuality. Because a "typical" KTZ really doesn't exist, we have no image to which we are forced to conform. And because we are all different kinds of people, we have a very special relationship to each other. KTZ sisterhood has taught us the value of tolerance. We know that friendships are not built on being carbon copies of one another but in sharing of experiences, friends, feelings, and our Christian faith. Because KTZs value each other as individuals our collective whole is a strong unity. We believe that sisterhood has made us bigger people, more capable of contributing effectively to society, the university, and each other. It is with pride that we wear the pin of Kappa Tau Zeta.

Devotion—a part of Beta life.

phi beta chi

The Beta bond of friendship in sisterhood takes many forms: co-sponsoring a street dance, working on our float, treating our alums to brunch, rushing and pledging new sisters, and putting our hearts into songfest. Beta sisterhood is also taking time from ourselves to share with others — time to listen when a sister needs us, time to study, time to work on service projects in the community, and time to participate in campus activities. Memories of a queen, a sister's pinning, a green-tinted carnation, a diamond-shaped pin, recall to us the bond of unity we found in the tradition of Phi Beta Chi.

phi omega

We proudly retain individuality within the framework of Phi-O sisterhood. Each woman is a vital member because her personality, her talents, her wit increases the love of her sisters. Giving the annual Christmas party at the Schultz-Lewis Children's Home, writing letters and sending packages to an American platoon in Viet Nam, and raising money for UNICEF at Halloween are services to others that contribute to the growth of each Phi-O. We live together and work together in harmony. Our spirit of sisterhood, our unity, our love of God and knowledge, and the assurance of a bright future make us proud that we are the women of Phi Omega.

Delta Theta Phi—we are the 'Lawyers'. Uniquely combining advantages of both a social and a professional fraternity, our primary objective is to prepare students for the legal profession, while providing all the inherent advantages of a well-rounded social life. We feel that by their constant association with students of the law and with men engaged in the legal profession, both our undergraduate and graduate students are better prepared to assume positions of responsibility in the practice of the law, or in any other profession in which they might be engaged.

356 Greenwich Street

Lambda Chi's pull together.

lambda chi alpha

The Lambda Chi's have added a fresh coat of paint to the house at 356 Greenwich, the fire escape has taken on a new look, but the goals and ideals for which we strive have not altered. We take great pride in our fraternity—its heritage and traditions. Scholastic improvement, development of individuality through our social program, and participation in intramural sports collectively work for the sound mind and body. Brotherhood to a Lambda Chi means co-operation, hard work, and an opportunity to exercise creativity and develop self-respect. Our reward—the honor of being a Brother in Lambda Chi Alpha.

phi delta theta

The congenial group of men who congregate at 606 Brown look back on the past year's accomplishments with pride. In the academic world we moved forward with great strides. Athletically, we again showed how the well-rounded membership of Phi Delta Theta is used to its fullest advantage. All this came, not by pure luck, but rather by determination and hard work on the part of every man who proudly calls himself a Phi Delt. Next year will again offer us the opportunity to show what we have. As for this year, it will go down as another year for Phi Delta Theta in which we proved ourselves a great fraternity.

Everyone wants to talk to Al's mother.

phi kappa psi

Describe the men of 801 Mound. Impossible! We Phi Psi's have always defied description. That's what makes us unique. We don't attempt to project an over-all image. Some of us are athletes, but not every Phi Psi is an athlete. As a group, we play hard. Many times we win big victories. Sometimes we make big mistakes. As individuals, we enjoy a certain freedom. A Phi Psi is free to be individually weak, yet able to build a stronger brotherhood ... he's free to be individually strong, yet able to be accepted on equal terms with the rest of his brothers. Finally, at his best or his worst, a Phi Psi is free to be himself.

phi mu alpha

An interest in the performance and appreciation of music is the common element which ties all the brothers of Phi Mu Alpha together. Instrumental soloists and ensembles formed from its ranks perform together with the fraternity chorus in concerts presented each year on campus. The fraternity has also performed in nearby cities in Indiana and Illinois. The fraternity's musical program and the experience of living and working together in the house are complemented by an active social program highlighted by the Homecoming Dance, Christmas Party, and Spring Formal. The men of Phi Mu Alpha are proud to support the place of music in the academic community within the context of fraternal living.

Scrubbing the "Rathskeller" floor on a Saturday afternoon, bull sessions in the lounge, dancing with a date to the music of a juke box, late night "booking" at the study table—this is life at Phi Sigma Epsilon. It serves as a necessary supplement to academic life at the university—no more, no less. Yet even that is quite a lot. The enduring friendships and learning experiences gained certainly go far beyond the institutional boundaries of the house and into many facets of each brother's life. We Phi Sigs take some pride in being the academically top-rated chapter of Phi Sigma Epsilon in the nation. The most important point, however, is not the almighty G.P.A. but the exciting academic motivation that one brother can give to the other.

pi kappa alpha

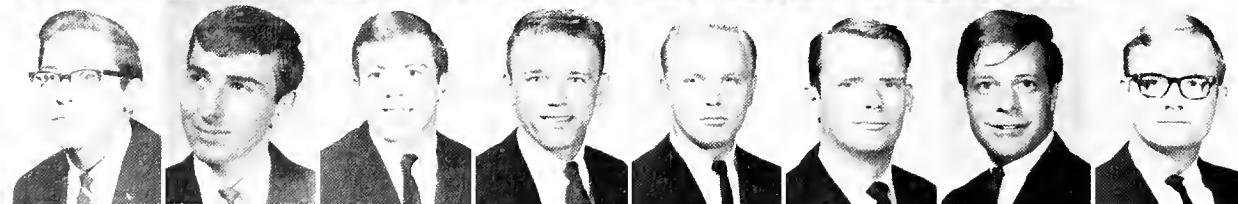

The "rah-rah" fraternity man of years past still exists—but the men of Pi Kappa Alpha have tried to escape this image of all take and no give. We have found it possible to keep the delicate balance between diversity and unity—Pikes are individuals yet brothers. Our active participation in Student Senate, Class Steering Committee, Union Board, honoraries and student publications and house projects such as the "Cave Man" rush party or the Vale Day School Christmas Party bear this out. We have come to the University to learn as students and grow as people. This we feel can best be accomplished within the brotherhood of Pi Kappa Alpha.

sigma phi epsilon

We, the men of Sigma Phi Epsilon, wear the Golden Heart proudly. Our desire for brotherhood does not cease with pledging, initiation, or graduation, but rather, we believe that brotherhood is built only through continuous self-education. A Sig Ep matures as an individual through the mutual helpfulness of his fraternal association. In addition, a positive chapter attitude toward scholarship is important to sound learning, and this we have, but we also believe that participation in sports and social activities are important in developing a well-rounded individual who will be able to cope with the challenges of our changing world.

sigma pi

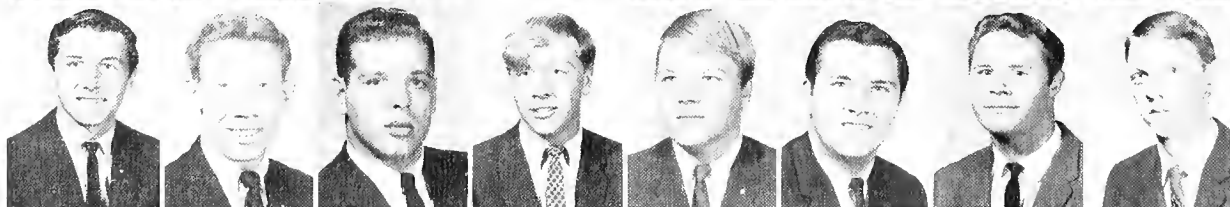

We, the men of Sigma Pi, take pride in our individualistic way of life. We have athletes, but are not an athletic fraternity. We have scholars, but we are not all scholars. Some of our brothers are Joe College, but some of us escape this image. We are many men with many interests and attitudes, yet we are one in our spirit and dedication to each other as persons, to our fraternity, and to our campus. We firmly believe that diversity in personalities, interests, and achievements, as well as a common sense of purpose are the sure signs of a real fraternity.

sigma tau gamma

We, the men of Sigma Tau Gamma, realize that college life is more than lectures and assignments. Our fraternity emphasizes integrity, scholarship, leadership, and excellence. A Tau graduating has more than a degree—he is a well-rounded man and a potential leader of tomorrow.

Initiation into Sigma Tau Gamma links the college man with our seventeen founders through an unbroken chain of nearly 26,000 members. A man pledged to this fraternity has a unique opportunity to learn the meaning of fraternal membership and to practice it through having, from the day of pledging, a definite place in the organization where his efforts for the good of the brotherhood will be recognized. The invisible bonds of brotherhood are difficult to define, but in Sigma Tau, pledge and member alike are given utmost opportunity to develop loyalty, mutual trust within the brotherhood, and to become dedicated to the high principles of Sigma Tau Gamma.

As another year is written in memoirs of time, so are its moments of joy filed in the memories of those who are aware of its short existence. During these short years our fraternity strives to broaden the values of each individual by widening his viewpoints to include those of others. We are not a stereotype and we believe that unity in diversity molds many talents and temperaments into common interests. Each of us contributes to the welfare and excellence of the fraternity in his own way, molding a brotherhood which can be seen in our scholarship, in our social functions, and in all our participation at Valparaiso.

Fire up! Big Red! That's the competitive spirit. That's Theta Chi. This image reflected on the athletic field is visible in every man on campus who displays a Theta Chi sweatshirt. We proudly carry our banner into every phase of campus life. In this drive for excellence, conformity to the generally accepted social norms are often laid aside. An exuberant social pride, not arrogant, but earned through decades of moral concern, summarizes our thinking. Exuberance is our password, brotherly assistance our method, and perfection our goal. To each other we are brothers, united by bands of friendship and common interests, striving towards excellence in every endeavor. The "White House on the Hill" shall ever stand as a monument to society. You see, we the brothers of Theta Chi would rather "fight than switch."

we all can't be varsity athletes, some of us couldn't even make fourth string. thus comes intramurals to take up the slack in the form of basketball, football—the usual as well as water polo and pool. intramurals form a nucleus for fraternity spirit and an activity for independents as well.

intramurals

women's sports

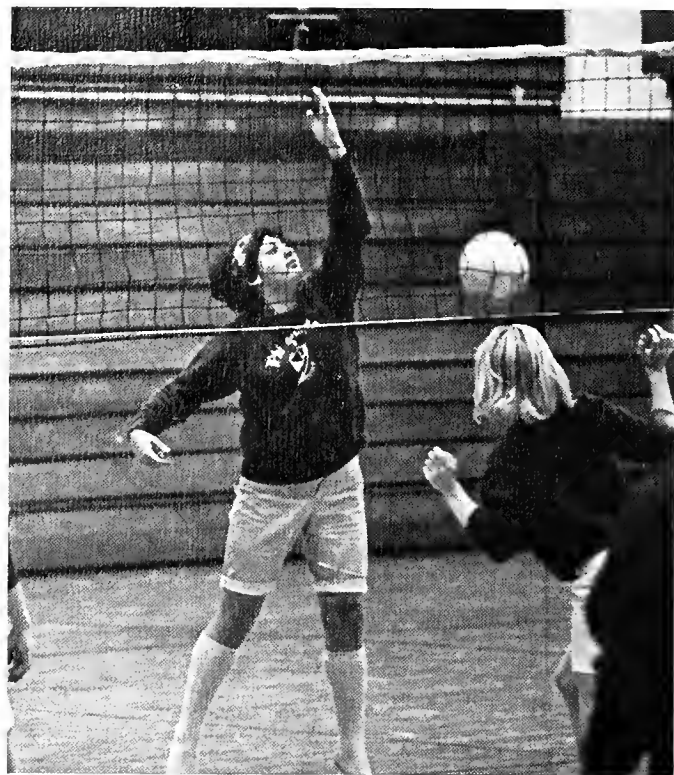

The addition of intercollegiate competition has brought to Valpo women greater athletic opportunities. Field hockey, basketball, and swimming teams, although without organized conferences, now compete with many larger universities in the midwest. Three of the members of the Valpo hockey team were chosen to play in the Midwest Field Hockey Tournament at Northern Illinois University this fall. The basketball and swimming teams competed successfully against formidable foes.

women's intramurals

Opportunity for women's athletics and recreation is provided by the Women's Recreation Association. Activities vary so that each individual woman on campus can find enjoyment in one or more of the activities. Badminton opened the WRA program this year, followed by independent and sorority volleyball. Several new activities sparked added interest when gymnastics, billiards, and tennis were offered to the members. The winter months were filled with the basketball tournament, followed by spring softball, tennis, and golf. The end of the year was highlighted by the annual Field Day competition by both sororities and independents. The traditional winners' banquet was held in late spring in honor of all the winning teams of the year.

perhaps we could say that valpo's organization man is joe college and bob dylan rolled into one:
loafers, v-neck pullovers, army surplus, and sandals.
though he may lose big at berkley—the middle-class orientation is a bit too strong—he takes himself and his job seriously.
with freedom to experiment, he concerns himself
not only with mickey mouse diversions, but with activities that shape and mold the aware campus of '67.

Despite the withdrawal of the law students from the student body, the Student Senate was able to make some far-reaching decisions in the past year. This year's Senate voted in a resolution on racial discrimination, developed and passed an Elections Code, voted approval for the course evaluation booklet, "The Candle," reallocated its budget, and went into several emergency sessions. To facilitate better communications with the student body several of the meetings were held in dormitory cafeterias. And yes, Virginia, there will be a MAC.

Senate Executive Board M. Schwehn, president; T. Roehl, vice-president; B. Lewis, secretary; V. Curtis, treasurer; J. Froemling, assistant treasurer; Fred Oster, NSA Coordinator; Cabinet Members R. Soeken, Athletics Committee; S. Lincoln, Communications Board; S. Schlimpert, Elections Committee; G. Post, Fund Raising Commission; Ron Nickel, Homecoming Committee; M. Phiehl, Orientation Committee; M. Turner, Scholarship Committee; M. Hellman, Student Affairs Committee; R. Morris, Union Board president athletic committee

The main goal of the Athletic Committee is to promote and encourage school spirit and tradition among the student body, as well as to support participation in all activities of the athletic department. These goals are carried out by sponsoring pep rallies and bus trips to away games, publicizing sports events, and recruiting future athletes.

Members: S. Durfee, T. Zern, R. Soeken, chairman; S. Maletio.

communications committee

Communications Board exists to facilitate better communications between Student Senate, its committees, and the student body. Periodic Senate meetings in dormitories, polls dealing with topics such as curriculum reform, WVUR-FM, and freshmen orientation are products of the Board.

Members SEATED: S. Lincoln, chairman; L. Palo. STANDING: K. Lincoln, L. Lorbeck, M. Schleicher, K. Braun, A. Benko, H. Hart, J. Krugler, K. Detrick.

fund raising committee

The Fund Raising Commission directs all of the Senate fund raising drives, such as the annual Fast for Freedom. The Commission serves as a source of information and review for any campus group wishing to conduct a fund raising drive.

Members: G. Post, chairman; R. Kretchman, P. Tabatsko, A. Strohschein, H. Pierce-Ruhland, J. Horton.

homecoming committee

The Homecoming Committee's work was made more difficult this year due to the fact that the city's centennial was celebrated along with the University's Homecoming festivities. The Committee planned the parade, football game, and activities for the alumni.

elections committee

Conducting the major campus elections and formulating a procedural Election Code were areas of concern for Student Senate's Elections Committee. Through an expansion of the poll-workers system, the creation of an extended subcommittee of residence hall contacts, and the presentation of the Election Code for Senate approval, the committee sought to increase student interest and participation in all its elections, and consequently, in the governing body.

Committee Members: A. Halvorson, B. Beumer, M. Bartsch, P. Schmalz, H. Herendeen, S. Schlimpert, chairman.

The National Student Association under the elected NSA coordinator has been busy making various proposals this year especially concerning the draft and has done extensive research on the problem. Also, NSA brought before Senate and passed the student insurance program.

Committee Members: B. Hilt, C. Haines, B. Pfothauer, N. Marlowe, F. Oster, chairman; M. McClintock.

orientation committee

Although their entire committee work is over in only one short week, Orientation Committee spends many months planning the program to acquaint the incoming freshmen and transfer students with the University. This year a program of lectures, social activities including the Dunes Picnic and All-Campus Mixer, and discussion and buzz groups on several immediate issues of concern kept the freshmen and the Orientations Committee busy.

Committee Members: P. Sella, K. Oster, J. Bachman, S. Schlimpert, B. Pfothauer, M. Piehl, chairman; M. Coiner.

scholarship committee

The course evaluation booklet, "The Candle" was the most important task undertaken by the Scholarship Committee during the past year. Compiling a large editorial staff, distributing questionnaires and evaluation forms to both the students and faculty, and editing the copy for the booklet published before second semester was the work of the committee.

Committee Members: T. Schwandt, J. Braun, F. Kraegel, M. Turner, chairman; J. Bachman, S. Ortmeier, P. Sella, L. Anderson, D. Burgman, J. Luekens.

student affairs committee

In its second year the Student Affairs Committee has involved itself in working on the lighting and sidewalk problem on campus. The committee also looked into the psychological counseling possibilities for the campus. Second semester Students Affairs concentrated on recommendations for the revision of the Student Handbook.

Committee Members: E. Robinson, M. Hellman, chairman; B. Hilt, C. Wenholz.

union board

Planning the social, cultural, recreational and entertainment activities of the campus as a whole is the job of the Valparaiso Union Board. This official student organization is made up of the Executive Board consisting of the four officers, the committee heads who work with them in decision making and co-ordination of individual committee projects, and the committee members. Union Board members gain practical experience in social responsibility, democratic leadership, and co-operation.

Executive Board: R. Morris, president; M. Schwehn, S. Kueck, P. Fields, D. Bopp.

fine arts committee

Increased opportunities for the appreciation, of art, music and literature are the aims of the Fine Arts Committee. New projects this year included a record lending library from the Union desk and discussions following each edition of the Lighter.

Members SEATED: B. McKinney. STANDING: P. Alexander, K. Duncan, P. Johnson, J. Rauscher, M. L. Brandt, P. Franks, K. Tostrud.

hospitality committee

The Hospitality Committee serves as host for special guests on campus such as professional entertainers and guests of Lyceum events. It has begun informal faculty student coffee hours and open house at the Union during Parents' Weekend, and also plans the Freshmen Dunes Picnic.

Members SEATED: P. Woehler, A. Dahl, K. Prinzing, chairman; L. Anderson, D. Noak, J. Heitner, C. Moh. STANDING: L. Streicher, R. Janssen, R. Doty.

lyceum committee

Lyceum Committee promotes the cultural and intellectual life of the Valpo student through the presentation of fine entertainment and cultural events. One event sponsored by the committee is the "Week of Challenge," an entire week of speakers, artistic presentations, and discussion on issues of concern in contemporary society.

Members SEATED: B. Lindfors, chairman; M. Piehl. STANDING: S. Sites, B. Lewis.

social committee

Campus Social Committee plans and carries out each of the Union Board dances held at the Union such as "Mistletoe Madness." The Social Committee also plans special events such as the Freshmen Dunes Picnic. This year the committee has attempted to encourage the various class steering committees to sponsor social events of their own.

Members Top to Bottom: S. Rathke, N. Riess, N. Stutz, L. Weber, J. Oreair, S. Ytrieide, R. Gale, M. Spano, chairman.

production committee

Union Board Productions Committee basically handles the technical work for many Union Board events, including the lighting and sound for concerts. The committee is also responsible for the selection and showing of the Friday night movie at the Union.

Members SEATED: B. Blauvelt, M. Schwan. STANDING: K. Kalen, chairman; J. Behn, J. Pope, J. Gruettner.

professional entertainment committee

The primary purpose of the Professional Entertainment Committee is to select performers for the campus. Concerts of main interest to the committee include the Homecoming, Winter Weekend, and Spring Weekend shows. The committee tries to satisfy the demands of the student body.

Members SEATED: C. Brauer, E. Eckhardt, chairman; M. Schultz. STANDING: D. Briars, M. Schiller, B. Bitting.

publicity committee

The Union Board Public Relations Committee functions to publicize all concerts, dances, exhibits, entertainments, movies, parties, and other events sponsored by the Board. Among its promotional projects, Public Relations Committee publishes the Union brochure.

the local intelligencia complains we're not mainstream. maybe not, but we'd like to think so. in fact, this book is based on the assumption that the beacon could shake its autograph book image and present valpo '67 without the rose-colored glasses approach. what started out as an enthusiastic venture often turned into drudgery no t.v. commercial housewife ever faced; photographers who were late and groups that never were, lost pages and mac all stirred the hormones which were only to be set aright by visits from uncle chuckles, gallons of lemonade, old wierd harold, and more lemonade (they never did fix the coke machine despite wide gastric distress). all the lemonade may have dulled the inspiration but not the spirit. We have intended beacon '67 to show valpo as it was: "the high school with ashtrays," "the dance pavillion," and corny as it may be, "dear ol' valpo."!

Tim Zorn, Editor-in-Chief. Kathy Wille, Academics and Administration Editor. Janet Schafer, Typist. Dave Simpson, Student Government Editor.

Published bi-weekly, the Torch attempts to answer the how and why of events as well as the usual who, what, when and where. Its editorial role is seen as that of the student—to question. Covering the entire University spectrum of events, this year its coverage expanded with several in-depth articles on matters of special interest. The Torch also discussed and commented on relevant events outside VU's campus. Occasionally, the Torch finds itself raising questions that some people would like to avoid. But in both its news reporting and opinion-shaking, the Torch has tried to uphold the standards of a free and responsible press.

president's council on human relations

One of the organizations dealing with the problem of human relations and especially the Negro-white problem on campus is the newly formed President's Council on Human Relations. Besides advising the president in these matters, the Council promotes the recruitment of non-white students to the University. The group also helps to form University policy on the human relations situation and to make the campus more aware of the matter.

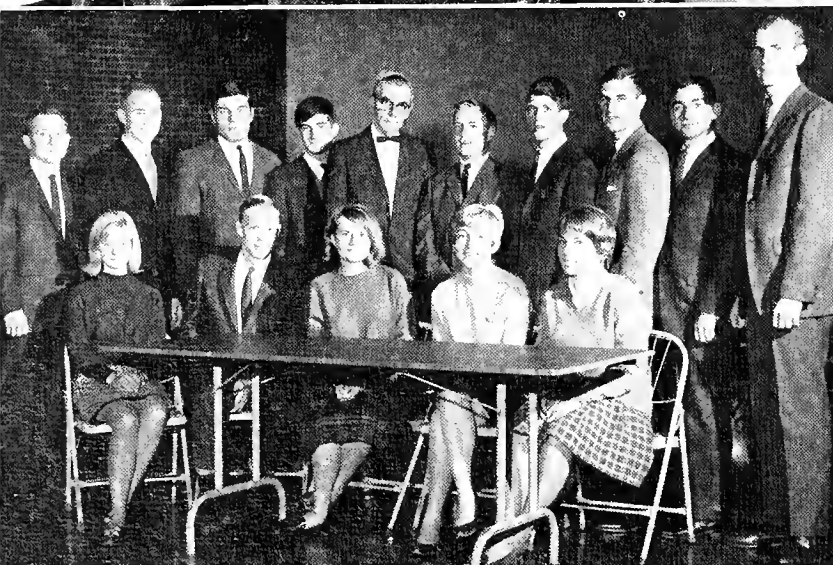

Committee Members: Rev. Lutze, M. Hellman, D. des Anges, D. Jones, Professor A. W. Meyer.

To serve as a sounding board for ideas from both the student leaders and prominent members of the administration and faculty, a special branch of Student Senate, the Student-Faculty Cabinet, is set up. The Cabinet discusses many of the issues of both immediate and long-range concern to the University and from this body come many of the proposals and issues which are taken up and voted upon in Student Senate and University Senate.

honor council

Valparaiso University is made unique by the fact that it operates on an honor system. The Honor Council, consisting of fifteen student members and three faculty advisors, is the judiciary body of the school's honor system. In addition to hearing cases of suspected violations, the Council works to orient the incoming freshmen and transfer students. The members of the Council are chosen so that all fields within the University are represented.

Members SEATED: R. Gruber, B. Swanson, chairman; B. Lewis, C. Niemoeller, P. Alexander. STANDING: Professor K. Klein, R. Nickel, R. Lewis, M. Turner, Dean Hesse, B. O'Neill, M. Schwehn, J. Richardson, S. Lewis, P. Schmalz.

alpha psi omega

The Greek letters of the national honorary dramatic fraternity remind its members of the dramatic tradition which began with the Greeks. The many hours of work and concentration involved in the production of a play are recognized for some by membership in Alpha Psi Omega. The group strives to acquaint the campus with one of the greatest art forms by offering the highest quality of theatrical processes to campus productions.

Members Top to Bottom: T. Behrendt, A. Dzurik, D. Schmidt, N. Malo, S. Daniels, S. Smalley, president.

gamma theta epsilon

Gamma Theta Upsilon is the National Honorary Geographic fraternity on campus. Those students who achieve high scholastic standings in the geography field or who demonstrate extreme interest in the department are eligible for membership. Biannually new members who have been nominated by the officers and the department are inducted. The fraternity sponsors a variety of activities connected with the field of geography.

pi delta epsilon

By being initiated into Pi Delta Epsilon, national honorary journalism fraternity, students who have done an outstanding job in the campus publications—Beacon, Lighter, Torch, and WVUR—are recognized. The members are inducted at a candlelight ceremony followed by a traditional dinner at Wellman's. The members attend the annual Associated Press Conference and also the nationwide Pi Delta Epsilon convention.

gown and gavel

An active honor society—that is Gown and Gavel. In pursuance of our academic, social, and spiritual goals, the 18 selected Senior women of Gown and Gavel extend their individual leadership campus wide. Together, we operate the only Tutoring Service on campus, hostess for guests of the University, take an active part in the Week of Challenge, conduct a week of Chapel Talks, provide calendar books, hold a coffee hour with the new faculty members, and moderate a graduate school panel. Feeling the responsibility of leadership, we cannot remain a dormant organization, but pledge ourselves to take a leading role in promoting the academic, cultural, social and spiritual programs of the University.

Members ROW 1: J. Karsten, C. Van Auken, M. Mahsman, C. Hofmeister, M. Agle, K. Prinzing, A. Brown, J. Davis, P. Fields. ROW 2: P. Daly, V. Cline, K. Putnam, S. Lindemann, Dean Ruosch, B. Lewis, E. Ash, D. Haase, president.

alpha pi

Alpha Pi, the senior men's honorary, serves the University community by sponsoring activities aimed at improving communication and relationships among students, faculty, and administration. Working with Gown and Gavel, Alpha Pi has sponsored a graduate school discussion, a week of chapel services, and a host service for guests of the University. In addition Alpha Pi members serve in positions of leadership in every area of the University.

The Student Chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers provides a vital link between the student engineer and the professional. Professionals present "on the job" aspects of their fields through talks and demonstrations at meetings or joint banquets and conferences with other schools. Topics include structures which have won National ASCE awards recently. A main project this year was ASCE sponsorship of a speech on the newly completed St. Louis Gateway Arch.

Officers: M. Green, W. Keck, D. Stehr, J. Heine, president; A.S. El-Naggar.

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers is a society to promote professional interest and growth in the fields of engineering. The society provides the members with films and lectures from industry, field trips, plant tours, student loan funds, and cash awards for outstanding achievement. This year again the A.S.M.E. took part in the National Convention.

Officers: Dean Hesse, J. Raeck, J. Marsch, A. Zoss, president.

Associated Women Students began the year by sponsoring the Big-Little Sis Program for Freshmen. They also planned the fall dance after the first home football game, cultural and shopping trips into Chicago, the faculty children's Christmas party, Penny-a-Minute collections for charity, the Best-Dressed Girl contest, the Miss V.U. pageant, and the Senior Women's Honor Tea. AWS acts to bring about a greater unity among our women students by functioning as an intermediary between the individual woman student and the university administration.

Officers: M. Clark, S. Schulte, B. Thalacker, M. Bader, president.

business club

The Student Association of the College of Business Administration offers practical exposure to the business world and its leaders. The Association sponsors meetings with business leaders, and plans field trips to national business conferences where it is possible to make contacts with leading businessmen and businesses in the Midwest. The club tries to acquaint the student with the realities of the business world.

Officers: R. Boyer, R. Burger, J. Knabel, C. Fleming, president.

chapel committee

Student Chapel Committee works toward a Christian Community that reaches beyond the chapel walls into all areas of campus life. To increase dialogue between University members and to motivate Christian concern for one another, the committee has formed four divisions: Chapel Proper; Retreats and Programs; Dorm Life; and Correspondence.

chemistry club

Affiliated with the American Chemical Society, Chemistry Club offers chemistry majors many benefits and opportunities to gain full professional status. The club's program includes speakers from industry and graduate schools; and field trips to places such as Argonne National Research Laboratories, graduate schools, and regional ACS meetings. The program broadens the student's education and stimulates him through contacts with professionals in the field.

engineering society

The General Engineering Society is made up of all students enrolled in the College of Engineering. In arranging programs which orient the student in professional engineering, the society board and the three technical societies each provide a speaker for one meeting during the year. Among the activities and projects sponsored were a field trip to Argonne National Laboratory; the second annual computer dance; an engineering newspaper, The Strobe; and lectures and demonstrations given by professional engineers.

Officers: K. Rozek, B. Brueggemann, J. Sciacero, president; Mr. G. Lux.

gold splash

Ballet leg, kick, and back lay out position are all familiar expressions which can be heard near the pool when Gold Splash, Valpo's synchronized swim club, practices. Gold Splash consists of thirty-one girls, ranging from seniors to freshmen, who have both the swimming ability and the desire to become synchronized swimmers. Every Thursday night from the beginning of October they work at improving and perfecting their movements for an annual Spring Weekend performance.

Officers: K. Mulholland, V. Graening, president; J. Zaiser, G. Kaeding.

highlights club

Highlight is a women's organization which seeks to make positive cultural contributions to the University campus and community. To every woman who seeks it, it is also an organization which attempts to stimulate creativity and a meaningful existence through drama, fine arts, athletics, and the literary arts. It is the ultimate aim of the society to better social relations and to broaden cultural horizons by helping people to relate to themselves by giving part of themselves to others.

Officers: A. Taylor, S. Nelson, B. Dorsey, S. Washington, president.

social services club

Social Services Club provides an opportunity for members to gain a better understanding of current social problems and social work's role in combating them. This year emphasis has been placed on service to spread this knowledge to the community and University and to give members experience in the field. Included is a foster grandparent program, speakers bureau, writers' bureau, special short-term projects, and recruitment.

Officers SEATED: G. Schoon, C. Meyer, B. Pier. STANDING: P. Marquette, S. Jensen, W. Goodling, president.

a funny thing about Valpo—they only use your IBM number on registration day.
to the prof and to the girl behind the cafeteria line, we're still miss smith and miss jones, tom, dick, and melvin.
we are not "big brothered" to distraction, but neither are we allowed to drift aimlessly and namelessly.
no man is an island.
we've been saved from the curse of the multi-versity.

unless you've been reared in the hebrew tradition, and are reading this book from back to front, you are probably now angry, annoyed, or at least a little upset. we hope so. we have tried this year to justify the printing of the book by making it a bit more than something too keep by your phone for the purpose of looking up blind dates. this book is an attempt to capture for posterity (or middle age reminiscing) the spirit and events of valparaiso university in the year 1967 a.d. because it is subjective, we've probably offended a few of you—our notion of the spirit of v.u. is naturally limited by the character of the characters on the editorial board. this year we will not be a supplement to the alumni house and the office of admissions. but we have tried to be honest. and if, after all, honesty is the best policy, maybe you can forgive us for ruining your autograph book.
